

Attorney General Helps Seniors Deal With Junk Mail

Christina Estes

KTAR

May 7, 2007

Arizona seniors strike back.

Senior volunteers across Arizona have saved their junk mail for past month.

Now, in honor of older Americans month, they'll hand it over to the attorney general's office.

State workers will sort through the mail and prosecutors promise to go after people violating consumer protection laws.

This morning, Attorney General Terry Goddard will join seniors at the first collection point at 7th Street and Hatcher in Phoenix.

Throughout the month, they'll hold 11 more collection events.